Fidelity Investments Study Finds Shift In Generation Y Attitudes Toward Finances, Employment And Benefits

Fidelity Investments® announced the results of a new study of young working Americans which reveals a shift toward more conservative behavior in financial matters and employment decisions. The Fidelity Generation Y study - which looked at the attitudes and behaviors of more than 1,000 employed Americans ranging from 22 years to 33 years old - is a follow up to research Fidelity conducted in early 2008.
