Wall Street Journal Pull-Out on Employee Benefits

In the April 6th issue, the Wall Street Journal published a special section on employee benefits, with extensive content provided by EBRI.

Dallas Salisbury, EBRI CEO, wrote two of the articles in the five-page section, on "Why the Employment-Based Retirement System Matters," and "Comfortable Retirement Within Reach," both highlighting recent EBRI research. Paul Fronstin, director of EBRI's Health Research and Education Program, is extensively quoted in the lead article. This is the third year EBRI has been asked by the Journal to participate in this project.

The section is posted at EBRI's blog, online here.
