Webcast Available for EBRI's Dec. 12 Forum on the Future of Employee Benefits

WASHINGTON, DC—For those unable to attend in person, a webcast will be available for the Dec. 12 policy forum on employee benefits, sponsored by the nonpartisan Employee Benefit Research Institute (EBRI) in Washington, DC.

EBRI's 73rd biannual policy forum, "Employee Benefits: Tomorrow, Today, Yesterday," will provide insights from a variety of leading national work force experts futurists, and "trend trackers," who will examine the current benefits landscape, the path(s) that led here over the past 35 years, and what changing demographics and the next generation of benefit plan designs might entail.

A free webcast of the forum, which will run from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 12, is being provided by the International Foundation of Employee Benefit Programs, and will be available online here.

The forum will include perspectives and insights from:

- Arnold Brown, Chairman of Weiner, Edrich, Brown, Inc.
- Mike Davis, Senior Vice President of General Mills.
- Howard Fluhr, Chairman of the Segal Group.
- Mathew Greenwald, President, Mathew Greenwald Associates.
- Ellen Galinsky, President, Families and Work Institute.
- Neil Howe, President of LifeCourse Associates.
- Dallas Salisbury, CEO, Employee Benefit Research Institute.
- Larry Zimpleman, Chairman of Principal Financial Group.

The full agenda of the policy forum is online at <http://bit.ly/15M71Lh>

Those who would like to attend in person can still register for the forum at:
