Massachusetts Health Care Reform

Urban Institute

In April 2006, Massachusetts enacted a health care reform bill that seeks to move the state to (almost) universal coverage through a combination of Medicaid expansions, subsidized private health insurance coverage, and insurance reforms. As part of an evaluation of the impacts of the state's reform effort, The Urban Institute conducted surveys of adults aged 18 to 64 years old in Massachusetts in Fall 2006 and Fall 2007.
